It is played at a much faster tempo than the intro and is played a tempo meaning it is to be played in correct time, unlike the intro. The complete file contains 3 lesson videos, a performance play thru video and full tabs. There are three distinct parts to the main section of music. However, sounding this slide is not essential and does not have to be emphasised or well articulated during playing. So it is worth playing around with the music and adding or removing some notes as you see fit. Difficulty level: Intermediate Barre chords: No Thumb over chords: No Playing Style: Fingerpicked (Travis picked) Tuning: Open C This lesson teaches the track as Fahey played it in the slightly slower version with the chordal introduction. John Fahey - Sunflower River Blues Learn how to play John Fahey - Sunflower River Blues note-for-note on guitar. Here is the downloadable tab for the music Sunflower River Blues Tab - Power Tab - PDF - TXT Playing Advice - Intro - This tune has an intro section which goes from bar 1 - 9. You'll receive the chords/lyrics and guitar tabs as PDF files. Left Hand Fingerings - The left hand fingerings are straightforward and you should be able to pick most of them up from the video. Thanks for Reading, Neil Learn "Sunflower River Blues - 1963 Original Version" faster with Songsterr Plus plan! All you are doing is moving the fingering shape on fret 2 down to fret one which will create a slide. They are marked as legato slides in the tab. Most of the slides are self-explanatory and are played as written. I have added a tempo rubato musical direction meaning the timing is flexible, so just play it as you feel comfortable. Above is a video of me playing the tune along with the tab. It is not a standard 12 bar blues and does not apply the triplet feel to the playing, so it has more of a folk guitar sound rather than that of a standard blues tune. You'll receive a link to download the lesson which will download as a zip file of 305 Mb containing all the lesson content. The videos are mp4 format and should play on PC's, Macs and most mobile devices. I would also recommend adapting the bridge sections to your liking, or even writing new ones. You don't have to play it strictly in tempo. Note Flexibility - As with all these tunes in open tunings there is some flexibility as to the notes you can play. Time Signature 4/4, 84 measures. Overall the tune is quite straightforward to play and one you should have a lot of fun learning. There is the main body and 2 individual bridge sections. Because the tune is in the Key of C and the guitar is tuned to Open C, you can add open string notes easily without them sounding out of tune. In this post I will give some advice on playing the tune. Main Section - This is the main body of the tune. If you want to download to an iPad or iPhone you'll need an app to do so, please read here to know more about it. However, with all these pieces I recommend changing the order to suit yourself. However, in bars 11, 15, 35, 39, 59 and 63 there is a small legato slide down from fret 2 to fret 1 that does not seem obvious. Right Hand Fingers - The thumb plays the bass notes and the index and middle, or the index middle and ring fingers play the treble notes which is standard for fingerstyle guitar. I often play it slower than John Fahey does in the original because I believe it sounds better slightly slower. They are all played as legato slides meaning you strike the string(s) slide to the appropriate fret but do not strike the strings again. When playing back the power tab it sounds as though you strike the strings again but this is just an error in the software. Slides - There are numerous slides within the tune. His style has been greatly influential and has been described as the foundation of American Primitivism, a term borrowed from painting and referring mainly to the self-taught nature of the music and its minimalist style.NotesAcoustic. It is played in the Key of C on a guitar tuned to Open C, and is in 4/4 time. The order in the tab is main - bridge 1 - main - bridge 2 - main. The tempo of the intro is much slower than that of the main body of the tune. However, play the tune at any tempo you desire, and as with all fast pieces, start by playing it slowly and then build the speed up. Tempo - The tempo of the main body of the tune is quite fast.
